

The Homestead Bill - A Constitutional
way to accomplish its purpose.

SPED UP THE NEW ENGLAND RAILWAYS.—From time to time we see, in our contemporary papers, reports of great speed being attained upon the different roads. The average, however, is much below what is generally supposed. The average rate of the regular passenger trains upon all the New England roads is 23.99 miles per hour; and of freight trains, 12.72 miles.

Some of the roads run through express trains at a higher rate of speed. Thus, for instance, the Boston and Providence express trains average thirty four and one-half miles, per hour, including stops and detentions; the Boston and Lowell express, thirty-two miles; the Boston and Worcester, thirty miles; the Fall River, twenty-nine miles; the Fitchburg, thirty and one-half miles; the Old Colony, thirty-two; and the Western, thirty-seven miles. The road makes no detentions or stoppages. The actual running rate upon several of these roads, is much more rapid. It is upon the Western road to attain a speed of some sixty miles per hour, on such portions of gen. Rieffle will have no bet or roses to repose on; and if he looks beyond the mere eliques and cabals that seek to control him, and especially those that are responsible, (as I believe he will.) he will see that the electors will almost triumphantly sustain him. No man ever came into power under better auspices, and he will do justice both to the principles and the party to which he owes his elevation.

Yours, PUBLIUS.

“How very seldom it happens,” said one friend to another, “that we find editors who are bred to the business.”

“Very,” replied the other, “and have you not seen how seldom the business is bred to editors.”

Our readers are credibly informed that a marriage in high life comes out from Fort St. Clair Thursday next, in which the interests of the Cincinnati and Louisville will doubtless be closely united. The fashionable circles are wide awake, in anticipation of a splendid wedding.

Our best thanks to the kind clerk of the Fashion for a package of St. Louis papers, received last night.

Hats, Caps, and Furs.

We know not when it has been our pleasure to behold so splendid an assortment of hats, caps, and furs, as may be found at this time in the establishment of Pollard, Pincher, & Smith, 465 Main street. The proprietors seem determined to shed, if possible, all competition. Their original premium hat, for beauty, defense, and price, is pronounced by competent judges to be the best of the season. As to their large and splendid assortment of hats, they are of every style and make, and we feel confident that a more choice selection can nowhere be found. In order that a just appreciation of the beautiful assortment of goods in this establishment may be formed, we request the aid and assistance of Louisville to visit the house and judge for themselves.

The grand jury returned a true bill against Kinkaid, yesterday, for murder.

Hogs.—The hog slaughtering business continues very brisk, and from 9,000 to 10,000 hogs are killed daily at the various packing establishments in the city.

Pork.—Pork has an upward tendency. One of our packers offered $5.35 net for a lot of 300 hogs yesterday, which, if taken, will be the highest price obtained here this season.

The Madison Courier quotes hog buyers, with sales on Tuesday at $5.25, at which there were more buyers than sellers.

Gift Books.

In the establishment of T. R. Nelson, 495 Main street, may be found a choice selection of beautiful bound books, suitable for holiday presents, and which are offered at prices remarkably low. Many of these books are truly splendid, and are worthy of the attention of those who intend during the coming holidays to make an appropriate present to some dearest friend. Visit the establishment, as a glance at these beautiful bound books will richly repay you for your trouble.

A gentleman lost a gold lever watch, valued at about $150, near Walker's Exchange, on Tuesday night. The finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving it at this office.

Accident.—A child named Hays, whose parents reside on Washington street, between Preston and Jackson, was run over by a milk wagon on Main street, near Preston, last evening, and was severely injured.

Mr. Sam. Hyman, the Epicurean King, a supplier of everything in and out of season, to suit the palate. His bill of fare is always full, and so is the list of his Marble Hall.

A free fight took place in Jeffersonville on Tuesday night, in which some six or eight persons participated. Two of the combatants were taken before a magistrate yesterday, and fined $5 each, for their sport.

The item which appeared in a morning paper yesterday about a country gentleman finding $50, a wagon, and a barrel of flour, is very good, but, unfortunately for the writer, nothing of the kind occurred. Try again, Mr. Courier.

We call the attention of travelers, and those in search of excellent boarding, to the care of Messrs. Shaver & Barton, proprietors of the Oldham House. These gentlemen, we doubt not, will give every attention to render their guests comfortable.

The concert of the Misses Raymond at Mozart Hall on Wednesday evening last, is looked forward to with much interest. It will doubtless be an excellent entertainment.

Dr. H. Logan Lyon, formerly post master at Bedford, Trimble county, Ky., died in this city yesterday morning. His funeral takes place to-day.

Two hogheads of new tobacco were sold at the Farmers Warehouse yesterday at $3.20 and $3.55 per hundred. The receipts of the new crop are very light.

Stolen Goods Recovered.—We stated a few days ago in the Democrat, that Mr. Patton's residence on First street, between Green and Walnut, had been robbed of a quantity of silver plate and a small amount of money. Yesterday officer Say found the articles and a portion of the money under the steps in front of Mr. Patton's house. A youth named Beach, and a negro boy belonging to Mrs. Clark, are suspected of having committed the robbery. The negro was in the employ of Mr. Patton at the time the things were stolen.

The trial of Jesse Stout, for the murder of Hardin Bullock, occupied the Criminal Court all yesterday. The case was given to the jury at a late hour last evening. They will not probably bring in a verdict before this morning.

The attention of our lady readers is invited to the assignee's sale of a Milliner's establishment. See advertisement.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN DANVILLE, INDIANA.—Half the town in ruins.—We learn that a fire occurred in Danville, Ind., on Monday night last, which destroyed nearly all the business part of the town. With the exception of a small brick building at the north east corner, the entire north side of the public square was swept away.

The buildings were all uninsured.

THE FALLS CITY.—Some recent admirer of this beautiful host has perpetrated the following, which we have been requested to publish.

It's often heard it said of late,
That Kentucky is the State,
Where handsome boys abound to shine,
Like the Fall City of the Westling line.

Oh! Captain Mason told me so,
As some one's fortune he'll find it so,
As some one's fortune he'll find it so,
As some one's fortune he'll find it so.

The police of New Albany had a "game" with a gang of rowdies on Monday night. The rowdies were making the night hideous with their yells, and the watchmen attempting to arrest them, a fight ensued, in which pistols, knives, and clubs were freely used, but without any serious damage on either side.

Meyer's Universum, containing excellent steel engravings of foreign scenery, with letter press descriptions, is a work well worth patronizing.

A phonetic friend of ours declares that on the phonetic platform he is as "phry as a crow."

Perrin and C. Payne, living near Natchez, Miss., murdered the keeper of a drinking saloon because he was told it was time to close the house and he was selling.

Hogs are holding at $8 per hundred net, at Trenton, N. J.

No less than thirty arrests were made by the police of Cincinnati on Saturday last. A very civil place, that!

The story of a man who had a nose so large that he couldn't blow it without the aid of gunpowder has turned out to be a hoax.

River News.

One year ago, at this date, the river was frozen over.

We are indebted to Mr. J. T. George, the gentlemanly keeper on the Geo. Campbell, for river favors. The Geo. Campbell leaves for Tusculum and Florence to-morrow.

We noticed on the steamer Memphis, which passed down the river yesterday, a large locomotive and tender for the Memphis and Charleston railroad. They were manufactured at the extensive foundry of Harbuck & Co., in Cincinnati.

The steamer St. Clair, Capt. R. D. Cochran, will leave for New Orleans to-day at 9 o'clock. Mr. J. K. Moody is the agent.

The Fashion has been withdrawn from the Louisville and St. Louis packet line, and will run in future between this port and New Orleans. She leaves on her first trip to-morrow, in charge of Capt. Richard H. Woolfolk, an efficient and popular officer.

The Lady Pike, Captain Reemelin, takes the place of the Fashion in the St. Louis trade. She has recently been thoroughly repaired, repainted, &c., and in point of speed and comfort, will equal any boat in the trade. The Pike leaves for St. Louis to-morrow.

The fine new steamer New York, Capt. Gimore, leaves for St. Louis to-day.

THE ST. LOUIS RAILWAY.—One hundred and fifty miles of the grading and masonry on the above road, from its intersection with the Jeffersonville and Columbus road, in Jackson Co., to Vincennes, is advertised to be let. Proposals will be received until Tuesday, the 6th of January, 1893.

Mr. Justice Blair, of St. Louis, has sued the editors of the St. Louis Evening News, in an action of slander, in which he held the damages at the very moderate sum of $20,000. The cause of action is stated to be an article that appeared in that paper, entitled "The Price of Blood in St. Louis," in which the editor commented, with severity, on the fact that the justice aforesaid had admitted to bail one Hoyer, charged with the murder of Mary Shubert, in the sum of one thousand dollars.

P. W. Strader, ticket agent for the Little Miami, and other railroads, in Cincinnati, has removed his office to the commodious room lately fitted up by him at the southeast corner of Front and Broadway streets, in that city.

The passenger and freight depots of the Covington and Lexington railroad, in the former city, it is said, when finished, will be the finest in the western country. They are now being built.

Mr. Martin B. Cumbs, a member of the Cincinnati Bar, made his debut at the National Theatre in that city, on Monday night last, in the play of Hamlet.

What a REVERSAL.—Last Spring a Mr. Balem, of Kanawha county, Va., emigrated to Texas, with his family and negro servants, with the expectation of doing better in the world, although his circumstances in Virginia were very comfortable. When he reached his Texas home of his servants died, and sickness in his family so operated upon his mind that he concluded to return to Virginia.

On the way himself, wife and five children fell victims to cholera and other diseases, and found graves upon the banks of the Mississippi. At Memphis the remaining children were left to shift for themselves, and a few days since reached home again, with the little remnant of $700 which had been left of their property.

It will be good news to lovers of game that the canvas back ducks are shot in great abundance just now on the Potomac.

It is announced that Mr. Putnam, in his forthcoming magazine, which is intended to rival the monthly of the Harpers, will not adopt the Websterian innovation in the mode of spelling English words.

Five young girls in Wilamantic, Conn., were fined $2 each, last week, for disturbing a Methodist meeting.

There have been a few cases of cholera among the recent arrivals of German emigrants at St. Louis.

General Pierce has been elected an honorary member of the New York Historical Society.

The best cigars made in Havana, called "Ramas," are worth in that city at the factory, $150 per thousand. Few ever find their way to this country, as they could not be sold here much under forty cents each.

The celebrated Billy Patterson, of whom so much has been said, is now stopping at the Gibson House, Cincinnati.

Three townships in Mississippi have passed, from the legislature of that State, the passage of an act, similar in its provisions to the Maine Law, prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquors within their limits. On being submitted to the people, the vote stood—for the law 172, against 86; majority in favor 86.

SKILLIN SURGERY.—A young man at Aberdeen, Miss., who had been deprived of both his eyes by a violent disease, which left bare his teeth, and made his appearance repulsive, has had the art of Dr. Penner fully tested in Surgery.

The doctor took a piece of flesh from the left arm of the youth, and stitched it so as to resemble as near as possible the natural lip. The operation was eminently successful; the patient was doing well, and now it is hoped that science will still further triumph, by the discovery of some infallible hair oil which will bring out on the false lip a divine vermilion and thus hide the scar!

AFFRAY IN CINCINNATI.—We learned yesterday from a passenger on the steamer Memphis, that an altercation took place between a policeman of Cincinnati, and a deck hand on a steamer, on the levee in that city, on Monday morning, in which the latter was shot through the body and killed. The policeman was pretty roughly handled by the crowd which collected.

There are seventy-four towns in Ireland, none of which have less than twenty-five hundred inhabitants, but which have only a single bookstore in the whole number. The proportion of book stores in Scotland, compared with Ireland, in the same class of towns is nine to one. There are also six Irish counties which cannot boast of even one book-seller.

SIX CENTS DAMAGES AND SIX CENTS COST HAVE BEEN RECOVERED BY EMERY MATTHEW in a libel suit against the New York Sun.

Miss Doffs says the first time a coat sleeve encircled her waist, she was in a pavilion built of rainbows, the window sills of which were composed of Azilian bars.

The second Monday of January is the day fixed in New York for the trial of the parties indicted for the Henry Clay disaster.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH CALIFORNIA.—The increase numbers of letters sent from this country to California, may be judged of from this fact, viz: the steamship Georgia, that recently left New York for San Francisco, took out 41,593 letters. Three years ago, 12,000 was considered a remarkable number and was heralded in all the newspapers of the Union.

DISCOVERY OF EMBALMED BODIES.

A writer in the London Notes and Queries furnishes the following interesting account:

A few weeks ago in clearing out the ruins of an old chapel at Nuneham Regis, in Warwickshire, which had been pulled down, all but the belfry tower, 40 years since, we thought it necessary to trench the whole space, that we might more certainly mark out the boundaries of the building, as we wished to restore it, in some measure to its former state. It had been used as a stack-yard and a depository for rubbish, by the tenants of the farm on which it was, ever since its dilapidation. We began to trench at the west end, and came on a great many bones and skeletons from which the coffin had crumbled away, till finding the earth had been moved, we went deeper, and discovered a leaden coffin, quite perfect, without date or inscription of any kind. There had been an outer wooden coffin, which was decayed, but quantities of the black rotted wood were all around it. We cut the lead and folded back the top, so as not to destroy it; beneath was a wooden coffin of good preservation, and also without any inscription.

As soon as the leaden top was rolled back a most overpowering aromatic smell rushed itself all over the place. We then fastened the inner coffin, and found the body of a man embalmed with great care, and heaps of rosemary and aromatic leaves piled over him. On examining the body more closely we found it had been beheaded; the head was separately wrapped up in linen, and the linen shirt that covered the body was drawn quite over the neck where the head had been cut off; the head was laid straight with the body, and where the joining of the neck and head should have been, it was tied round with a broad black ribbon. His hands were crossed on his breast, the wrists were tied with black ribbon, and the thumbs were tied together with black ribbon. He had a peaked beard, and a quantity of long brown hair, curled and glossy, which fell round his neck; the mark on anything about him was the linen on his chest, just above where his hands were crossed; on it were the letters "T. B." written in black ink.

On trenching towards the chancel, we came on four leaden coffins laid side by side, with inscriptions on each; one contained the body of Francis, Earl of Chichester and Lord Danvers, 1653; the next the body of Audrey, the Countess of Chichester, 1652; another, the body of Lady Audrey Leigh, their daughter, 1640; and the fourth the body of Sir John Anderson, son of Lady Chichester by her first husband. We opened the coffin of Lady Audrey Leigh, and found her perfectly embalmed and in entire preservation, her flesh quite plump as if she were alive, her face very beautiful, her hands exceedingly small and white; she was dressed in fine linen trimmed all over with point lace, and two rows of lace flat across her forehead. She looked exactly as if she were asleep, and seemed not more than 16 or 17 years old; her beauty was very great; even her eyelashes and eyebrows were quite perfect, and her eyes were closed; no part of her face or figure was at all fallen in.

We also opened Lady Chichester's coffin, but with her embalming had apparently failed; she was a skeleton, though the coffin was covered with aromatic leaves. Her hair however, was as fresh, as if she lived; it was long, thick, and as soft and glossy as that of a child, and of a perfect auburn color.

In trenching one side of where the altar had been, we found another leaden coffin with an inscription. It contained the body of a Dame Marie Browne, daughter of one of the Leighs, and of the Lady Marie, daughter to Lord Chancellor Brackley. This body was also quite perfect, and embalmed principally with a very small coffee-colored seed, which the coffin was nearly filled, and it also had so powerful a perfume that it filled the whole place. The face was very beautiful, her hair long, thick, and of a perfect auburn color.
